A septic cellulitis starting in the foot may rapidly travel through this spongy continuous sheet of cellular tissue until it infects the whole limb. A post-peritoneal cellulitis starting as a retrocecal infection may culminate in a perinephritis perihepatic or phrenic abscess. Recalling the fact that this sub-peritoneal structure extends as vaginal processes along the blood vessels and nerves, passing from the abdomen into the thorax, we have an explanation of the extension of suppuration from the abdomen or pelvis into the chest; how, for example, appendicial pus may be coughed up. and. on the other hand, how an empyema of the pleura may point to the thigh, or a wounded thoracic duct result in pointing in the thigh or groin, by traveling along through this spongy connective tissue I have seen postperitoneal appendicial abscesses open in the middle line of...
