THE SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY AND INNOVATION POLICY MAKING : ITS TRENDS AND OBJECTIVES IN THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES

Daya Publishing House, 2016. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. 1st Edition. Science, Technology and Innovation (STI) policy at the national level is expected to be commensurate with the challenges of the globalising society, it is observed that the STI potential of the developing countries often remains unexplored or underutilized due to lack of appropriate framework of formulation of the STI policy as well as inadequacies in its implementation mechanisms. While formulating, the national policy should take into account the availability of...
