The Ceylonese chronicle, the Makavamsa, composed probably in the fifth century, tells of the mural paintings decorating the relic-chamber of the Ruwanweli daaba constructed by King Dutthagamini about B. C. 150. The testimony of native writers is confirmed by that of the Chinese pilgrims in the fifth, sixth, and seventh centuries, who notice several 1 Rhys Davids, Buddhist India, p. 96; citing Vin. , ii. 151; iv. 47, 61, 298; Sam. , 42, 84. examples of celebrated Buddhist pictures; and by Taranath, the Tibetan historian of Buddhism, who, when writing at the beginning of the seventeenth century, ascribes the most ancient pictures to the gods, and declares that they were so marvellous as to bewilder beholders by their realism. 1 The literary...

Reviews

This is the finest publication we have read through right up until now. Better than never, though i am quite late in start reading this one. Its been written in an remarkably easy way in fact it is only after i finished reading through this book by which basically altered me, affect the way i think.
